

We are proud to nurture the next generation of ethical and values-based global citizens with unique leadership signatures.

MISSION

The Center is dedicated to inquiry, dialogue, and education on the ethical and humane dimensions of life.

OUR GOAL

As a collaborative nonpartisan think-tank, our goal is to focus on the development of interdisciplinary research and programs in varied fields of knowledge, from science and technology to education and international relations.

We seek to emphasize responsibility and examine meaningfulness and moral purpose between individuals, organizations, and societies.

OUR MODEL THINK TRANSFORM IMPACT

We see ethics as a source of optimization to influence society and educate a new generation of citizens. Our model of intervention Think. Transform. Impact bases its core upon critical thinking, character development, and values-based leadership for impact across disciplines. We see in technology an ally to accelerate the process of human transformation.

As a multi-national, interdisciplinary think tank, we collaborate with leading experts in education, science and technology to develop and test innovative methods and tools that encourage individuals and organizations to have a deep and lasting impact on society and the culture of their communities.

VALUES-BASED LEADERSHIP

We believe that genuine leadership requires both a compelling vision for the future and an ability to inspire and motivate across diverse constituencies. Research on leadership has substantiated that the capacity to positively and strongly influence others is highly related to a leader's character and personal values. Great leaders who understand and embody their core values are able to transform the aspirations of those around them and align their efforts with a purpose that transcends individual gain.

Organizations who nurture a more ethical culture are more efficient, potentially increasing their baseline and positive impact. We have introduced a series of programs to give emerging decision-makers, corporate executives, and government officials the opportunity to explore the meaning and practice of ethical leadership and to understand the important role of values in shaping education and organizational cultures.

Our transformative model of ethics education emphasizes personal responsibility and examines meaningfulness and moral purpose between individuals, organizations, and societies.

Values-Based Leadership

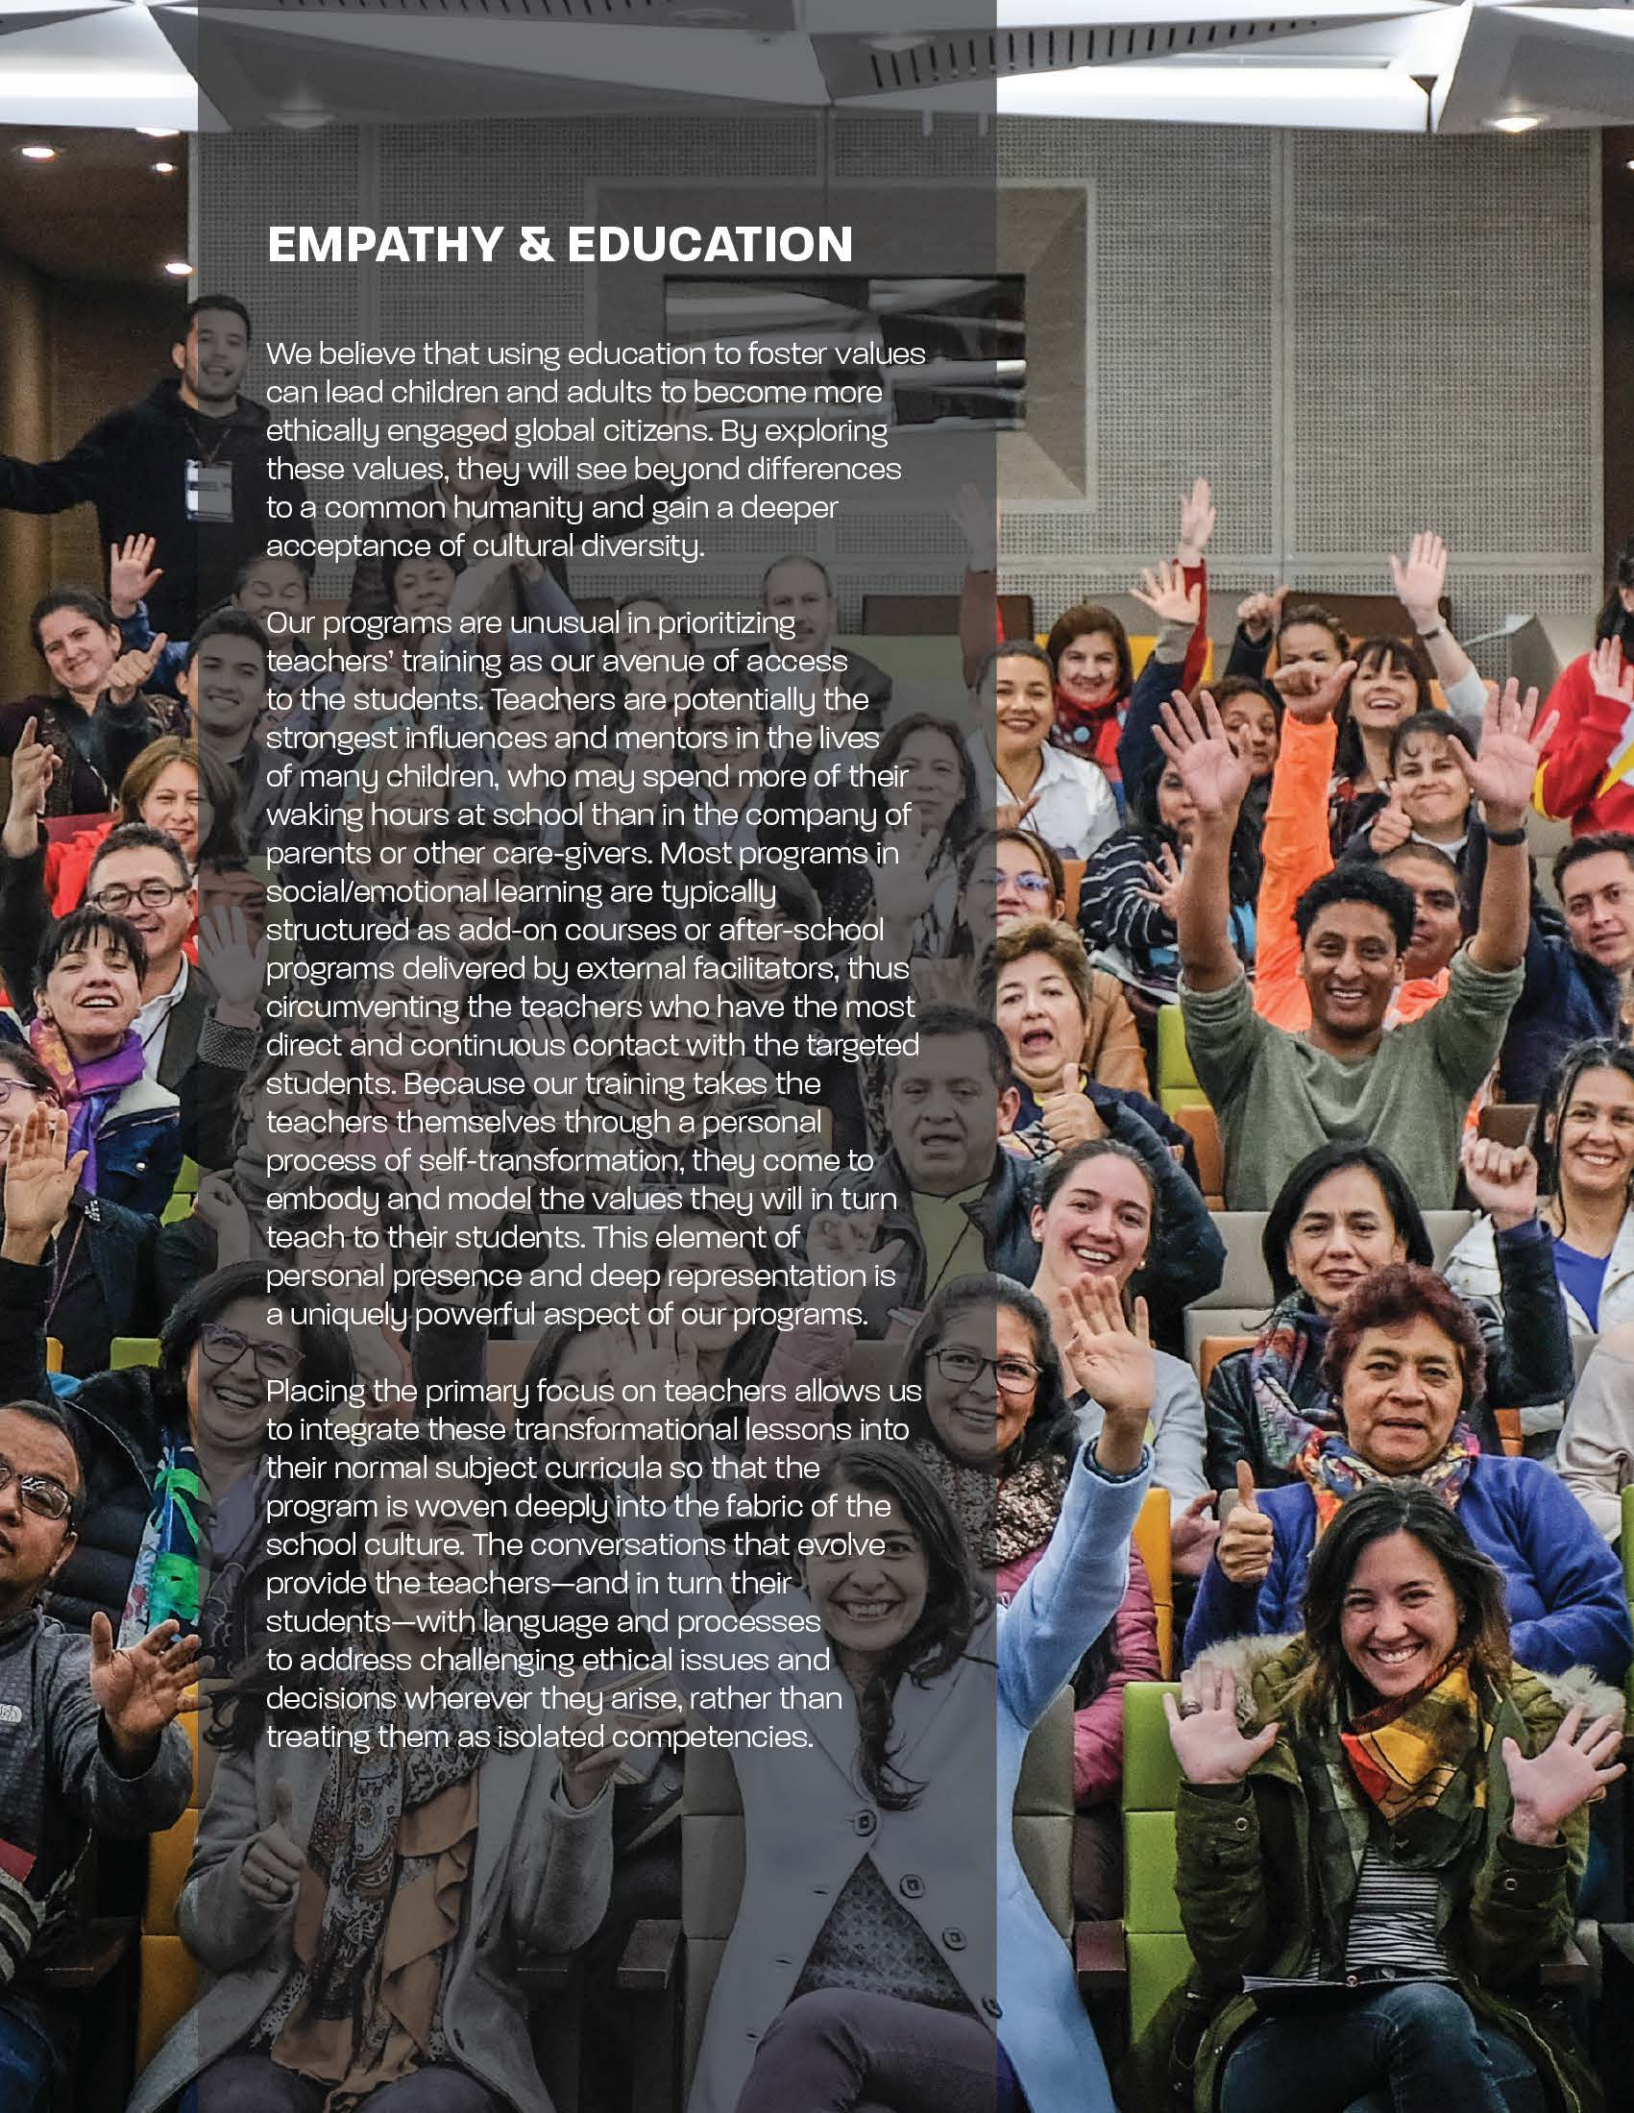

Our values-based leadership programs are created in partnership with leading higher education institutions such as MIT Sloan School, Yale School of Management and Cornell's Johnson Graduate School of Management, and have been adopted at other leading business and management schools and organizations.

Participants explore how to align professional values with their deep personal values and develop reflective thinking skills for ethical leadership.

Ethics Initiative

As an interdisciplinary think tank on ethical responsibility in science, engineering, business, and public policy, we organize public conferences and private roundtable discussions designed to catalyze innovative systems thinking on complex global challenges facing humanity.

EMPATHY & EDUCATION

We believe that using education to foster values can lead children and adults to become more ethically engaged global citizens. By exploring these values, they will see beyond differences to a common humanity and gain a deeper acceptance of cultural diversity.

Our programs are unusual in prioritizing teachers' training as our avenue of access to the students. Teachers are potentially the strongest influences and mentors in the lives of many children, who may spend more of their waking hours at school than in the company of parents or other care-givers. Most programs in social/emotional learning are typically structured as add-on courses or after-school programs delivered by external facilitators, thus circumventing the teachers who have the most direct and continuous contact with the targeted students. Because our training takes the teachers themselves through a personal process of self-transformation, they come to embody and model the values they will in turn teach to their students. This element of personal presence and deep representation is a uniquely powerful aspect of our programs.

Placing the primary focus on teachers allows us to integrate these transformational lessons into their normal subject curricula so that the program is woven deeply into the fabric of the school culture. The conversations that evolve provide the teachers—and in turn their students—with language and processes to address challenging ethical issues and decisions wherever they arise, rather than treating them as isolated competencies.

Transformative Teachers

Through interactive workshops we engage teachers in discussion, introspection and experimentation, and provide educators with the tools and methods to foster resilient and ethical young leaders.

We train teachers to integrate the development of cognitive skills, social-emotional understanding and ethical purpose into the classroom culture, enabling them, to make a profound and lasting impact on their students.

Compassionate Young Leaders & Young Peace Leaders

We work directly with young students to promote personal transformation and cross-cultural understanding via community initiatives and trans-media involvements.

By teaching awareness, compassion and right action, we promote character development and global citizenship.

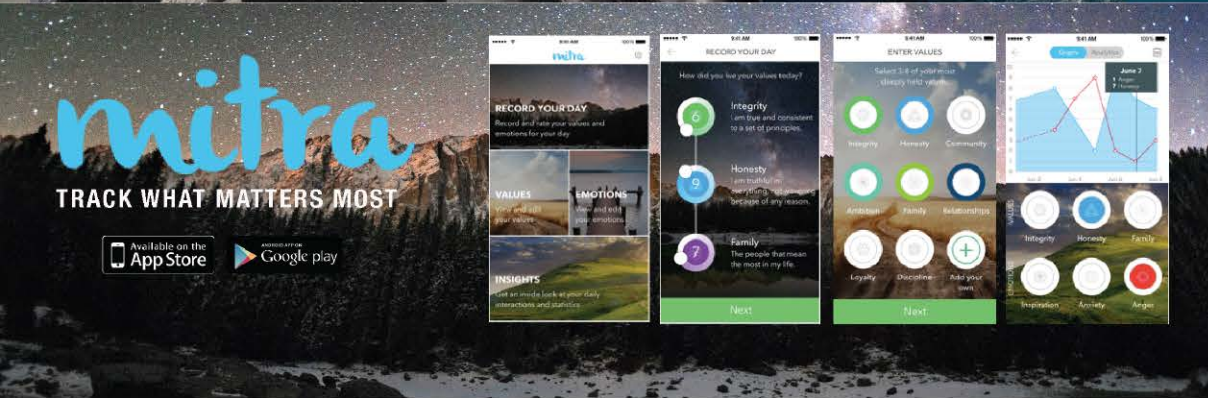

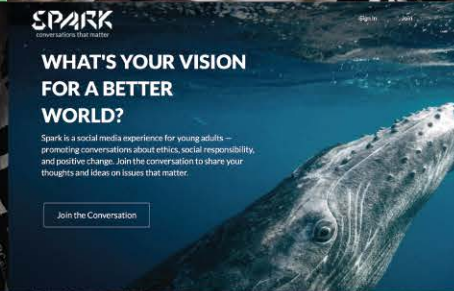

TOOLS FOR CHANGE

We aim to impact human development and promote well-being by contributing to the establishment of foundations for reliable assessment and other tools for change.

We understand the need for automated ways to objectively assess and promote human transformation. Through strong partnerships, we collaboratively research and develop tools to benefit those working in the practice of education, business, and governance to promote peace, trust, and empathy across cultures.
